

NEW FACULTY APPOINTMENTS – May, 2007

Moji Ariyo, M.D.

Instructor of Medicine

Dr. Ariyo has been recruited to Emory as Instructor of Medicine. She received her M.D. degree from Albert Einstein College of Medicine in the Bronx, New York. Her post-graduate medical training includes an internal medicine residency at Long Island Jewish Hospital in New Hyde Park, New York. Additionally, she is board certified in Internal Medicine. She will provide patient care at The Emory Clinic.

Vanajakshi Bollineni, M.D.

Instructor of Medicine

Dr. Bollineni has been recruited to Emory as Instructor of Medicine. She received her M.D. degree from Siddhartha Medical College/Health University in Vijayawada, India. Her post-graduate medical training includes an internal medicine residency at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine/Jacobi Medical Center in the Bronx, New York. She is board certified in Internal Medicine. She will serve as a hospitalist at Emory Crawford Long Hospital.

Brian Z. Fowler, M.D.

Instructor of Radiation Oncology

Dr. Fowler has been recruited to Emory as Instructor of Radiation Oncology. He received his M.D. degree from the University of Maryland School of Medicine. He completed his residency in Radiation Oncology at Emory University. Dr. Fowler's clinical assignment will be at Emory Crawford Long Hospital. He will develop the department's program for the management of lung malignancies. He plans a research program with the Georgia Tech group in nanotechnology.

R. Donald Harvey, Pharm.D.

Instructor of Hematology/Oncology in the Winship Cancer Institute

Dr. Harvey has been recruited to Emory as Assistant Professor of Hematology/Oncology in the Winship Cancer Institute. He received his doctoral degree at the University of North Carolina and is board certified both as a pharmacotherapy specialist and oncology pharmacist. Dr. Harvey will take the lead in the start-up of the Winship Cancer Institute's Phase I program and continue his work and research in pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, and pharmacogenetics.

Allan D. Kirk, M.D., Ph.D.

Professor of Surgery

Dr. Kirk has been recruited to Emory as Professor of Surgery. He received his M.D. degree from Duke University School of Medicine, and completed a Ph.D. degree in Immunology at Duke University. He completed a General Surgery residency at Duke University, followed by a Transplant Fellowship from the University of Wisconsin. His training and experience will enable the Department of Surgery to expand its clinical care and clinical research at the Emory Transplant Center.

Morgan L. McLemore, M.D.

Assistant Professor of Hematology/Oncology in the Winship Cancer Institute

Dr. McLemore has been recruited to Emory as Assistant Professor of Hematology/Oncology in the Winship Cancer Institute. He received his M.D. degree from the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio. He completed a residency in Internal Medicine at Barnes Hospital. He is double boarded in medical oncology and hematology. His expertise is in hematopoiesis and leukemogenesis and in the development of new approaches to hematologic diseases.

Sylvia E. Morris, M.D.

Instructor of Medicine

Dr. Morris has been recruited to Emory as Instructor of Medicine. She received her M.D. degree from Georgetown University School of Medicine. Her post-graduate medical training includes an Internal Medicine Residency at the University of Washington Department of Internal Medicine in Seattle. Additionally, Dr. Morris is board certified in Internal Medicine. She will provide hospitalist services at Emory Crawford Long Hospital.

Jonathon A. Nye, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Radiology

Dr. Nye has been recruited to Emory as Assistant Professor of Radiology. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and completed his post-doctoral fellowship at Emory University in the Department of Radiology. His research efforts have been focused on radioisotope production methodologies and the incorporation of positron emitting isotopes into pharmaceuticals for use in positron emission tomography.

Shuh-Chyung Song, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Biochemistry

Dr. Song has been recruited to Emory as Assistant Professor of Biochemistry. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from the National Chung-Hsing University in Taiwan, then completed his Ph.D. studies in Agricultural Chemistry at the National Taiwan University. Dr. Song has significant experience with glycobiology, glycoprotein biosynthesis, immunology of glycoconjugates, and carbohydrate binding proteins.